About the Author

Throughout Trichome Technologies' 20-year history, the company has been as enigmatic as it has been prolific. Putting out phenomenal strains like Purple Kush, they quietly set the breeding world on fire without turning themselves into cannabis celebrities. Shrouded in mystery and known only as the breeder to the stars, K of Trichome Technologies has contributed to publications such as High Times and works by Robert Connell Clarke, Greg Green, and Jorge Cervantes. K has won an unprecedented 9 cannabis cups, including one memorable year when he took 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places in the Bay Area Harvest Cup, was voted to have the best grow room in the 25 year history of High Times and has personally bred over 200 new varieties of cannabis in his long and illustrious career.

With the legalization of medical marijuana he has been a consultant for some of the largest medical cannabis production facilities from Colorado to Israel. K has also appeared on CNN and 60 minutes to explain the changes in cultivation. Now, for the first time, he shares his secrets and growing methods in his first book, which is sure to change the way home growers and commercial cultivators alike grow pot.

has set up many super productive high tech gardens in his career

By Jorge Cervantes

This book is the product of years of research, work and success. I knew K. through his garden photos and articles from High Times magazine, long before meeting him in person. This direct prodigy of Tom Forçade, High Times founder, Ed Rosenthal, Mel Frank and Robert Connell Clarke, and mine started growing cannabis when he was 12 years old, some 32 years ago! Through these well-footed and humble beginnings K. has met virtually everybody in this industry and carries the torch of hope for the future. K is at the head of an underground swell that makes up the burgeoning ranks of new growers of today and tomorrow.

Indoor garden design is something K. takes seriously, pouring thousands of dollars into his ultimate high-tech setups. To set up an efficient productive large scale indoor garden you need to do your homework and planning. K. has set up many super productive high tech gardens in his career. Even with his propensity for technology his long career and practical knowledge have given him a greater appreciation for the basics of marijuana culture. This professional attitude from a guy who “never had a real job” proliferates the pages of this book.

CNN and 60 Minutes TV news programs interviewed K back in the 1990s for their specials on indoor marijuana growing. They tracked K down through High Times where K had been elected the “Number One Producer” in the 35-year history of the magazine. They picked the right grower. The interviews were so successful that thousands of new growers were attracted to the field.

If you want to see great photos and artwork along with well-researched heart-felt text from an author that risked his freedom by living in the United States of America to promote and grow cannabis, this is the book for you!

I highly recommend this book – the author is one of the best cultivators in the industry!

By Todd McCormick

I have been following the career of Kenny ever since I first started seeing his many articles in High Times magazine. His company Trichome Technologies has been at the forefront of Cannabis cultivation technology for over two decades. The information contained in this book is written from actual experience, and not cut and paste from the internet like some other author's books. In a time when so many Cannabis cultivation authors are total posers, and merely looking over the shoulder of experienced growers for their content, it is refreshing to see somebody with demonstrable cultivation experience writing a book such as this. Kenny brings expertise to being an author and it shines through in his writing.

I highly recommend it to anybody seriously considering a career in cannabis cultivation or even somebody who is looking for quality information to improve their hobby grow. Unlike some Cannabis "encyclopedias" on the market today which are not worth your time or your money, this is one book that you cannot go wrong with reading! Highly recommended!

Expert cannabis production

By Concetta Percelli

Incredible amount of information, all current and relative to modern growing technology. The pictures alone are worth the price of the book, but the grow information is beyond any problem you may and probably will encounter. This is for the beginner or expert grower, and did not expect to have so much information on hash, how to extract THC and CBD. Overwhelmed
